

"A fable for grownups that will be fun for children. Sit down with the book and get your own bearings."

— New York Herald Tribune

With the first signs of approaching winter, the Bear's thoughts naturally turn to a cozy cave and a long snooze till spring. But when he awakes a few months later, he is surprised to find himself smack dab in the middle of a sprawling industrial complex! To make matters even worse, everyone he meets keeps insisting that he's not even a bear—just a silly man who needs a shave and wears a fur coat.

Written by the beloved director of such classic screwball comedies as The Girl Can't Help It and Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter?, this wryly humorous tale has long been an underground favorite with readers of all ages and attitudes. Poking fun at a fast-paced, high-tech society, it follows the Bear's repeated attempts of finding out just where he belongs. On an assembly line? In a zoo? At the circus? No one seems to know for sure.

Tashlin's forty-six delightfully original and whimsical illustrations add to the charm of this unique and entertaining fable.

Once upon a time, in fact it was on a Tuesday, the Bear stood at the edge of a great forest and gazed up at the sky. Away up high, he saw a flock of geese flying south.

Then he gazed up at the trees of the forest. The leaves had turned all yellow and brown and were falling from the branches.

He knew when the geese flew south and the leaves fell from the trees, that winter would soon be here and snow would cover the forest. It was time to go into a cave and hibernate.

(3)

1

And that was just what he did.

(4)

Not long afterward, in fact it was on a Wednesday, men came ... lots of men, with charts and maps and surveying instruments. They charted and mapped and surveyed all over the place.

(5)

Then more men came, lots of men with steamshovels and saws and tractors and axes. They steamshoveled and sawed and tractored and axed all over the place.

They worked, and worked, and worked, and finally they built a great, big, huge,

(7)

factory, right OVER the TOP of the sleeping Bear's cave.

(10)

The factory operated all through the cold winter.

(11)

And then it was SPRING
again

(10)

(11)

Deep down under one of the factory buildings the Bear awoke. He blinked his eyes and yawned.

Then he stood up sleepily and looked around. It was very dark. He could hardly see.

Then he saw a light in the distance. "Oh, there's the entrance to the cave," he said, and yawned again.

(12)

He walked up the stairs to the entrance and stepped out into the bright spring sunshine. His eyes were only half opened, as he was still very sleepy.

His eyes didn't stay half opened long.

They suddenly POPPED wide apart.

He looked straight ahead.

*Where was the forest?
Where was the grass?
Where were the trees?
Where were the flowers?*

WHAT HAD HAPPENED?

Where was he?

~~Things looked so strange.~~ He didn't know where he was.

But we do, don't we? We know that he was right in the middle of the busy factory.

14

"I must be dreaming," he said.
 "Of course that's it, I'm dreaming."
 So he closed his eyes and pinched himself.
 Then he opened his eyes very slowly and looked about. The big buildings were still there. It wasn't a dream. It was real.

15

Just then a man came out of a door.

"Hey, you get back to work," the man said. "I'm the Foreman and I'll report you for not working."

The Bear said, "I don't work here. I'm a Bear."

16

The Foreman laughed very loud.

"That's a fine excuse for a man to keep from doing any work."

"Saying he's a Bear."

The Bear said, "But, I am a Bear."

17

The Foreman stopped laughing. He was very mad.
"Don't try to fool me," he said. "You're not a Bear. You're a silly man who needs a shave and wears a fur coat. I'm going to take you to the General Manager."

The Bear said, "No, you're mistaken. I am a Bear."

18

The General Manager was very mad, too.

He said, "You're not a Bear. You're a silly man who needs a shave and wears a fur coat. I'm going to take you to the Third Vice President."

The Bear said, "I'm sorry to hear you say that ... You see, I am a Bear."

19

The Third Vice President was even madder.

He got up out of his chair and said, "You're not a Bear. You're a silly man who needs a shave and wears a fur coat. I'm going to take you to the Second Vice President."

The Bear leaned over his desk and said, "But that isn't true. I am a Bear, just a plain, ordinary, everyday Bear."

The Second Vice President was more than mad or madder. He was furious.

He pointed his finger at the Bear and said, "You're not a Bear. You're a silly man who needs a shave and wears a fur coat. I'm going to take you to the First Vice President."

"Who? Me?" the Bear asked. "How can you say that, when I am a Bear?"

The First Vice President yelled in rage.

He said, "You're not a Bear. You're a silly man who needs a shave and wears a fur coat. I'm going to take you to the President."

(24)

The Bear pleaded, "This is a dreadful error, you know, because ever since I can remember, I've always been a Bear."

(25)

"Listen," the Bear told the President, "I don't work here. I'm a Bear, and please don't say I'm a silly man who needs a shave and wears a fur coat, because the First Vice President and the Second Vice President and the Third Vice President and the General Manager and the Foreman, have told me that already."

26

"Thank you for telling me," the President said. "I won't say it, but that's just what I think you are."

The Bear said, "I'm a Bear."

27

The President smiled and said,
"You can't be a Bear. Bears are only in a zoo or a circus. They're never inside a factory and that's where you are; inside a factory. So how can you be a Bear?"

The Bear said, "But I am a Bear."

The President said, "Not only are you a silly man who needs a shave and wears a fur coat, but you are also very stubborn. So I'm going to prove it to you, once and for all, that you are not a Bear."

The Bear said, "But I am a Bear."

AND SO
PRESIDENT'S CAR
ZOO

32

"Is he a Bear?" the President asked the zoo Bears.

The zoo Bears said, "No, he isn't a Bear, because if he were a Bear, he wouldn't be outside the cage with you. He would be inside the cage with us."

The Bear said, "But I am a Bear."

33

A little baby zoo Bear said, "I know what he is. He's a silly man who needs a shave and wears a fur coat."

All the zoo Bears laughed.

The Bear said, "But I am a Bear."

AND SO THEY
DROVE SIX
MILES

"Is he a Bear?" the President asked the circus Bears. The circus Bears said, "No, he isn't a Bear, because if he were a Bear, he wouldn't be sitting in a grandstand seat with you. He would be wearing a little hat with a striped ribbon on it, holding on to a balloon and riding a bicycle with us." The Bear said, "But I am a Bear."

One little baby circus Bear said, "I know what he is. He's a silly man who needs a shave and wears a fur coat."

All the circus Bears almost fell off their bicycles laughing.

The Bear said, "But I am a Bear."

They left the circus and drove back to the factory.

And so they put the Bear to work on a big machine with a lot of other men. The Bear worked on the big machine for many, many months.

One day a long time afterward, the factory closed down and all the workers left and went home. The Bear walked along far behind them. He was all alone, and had no place to go.

As he walked along, he happened to gaze up at the sky. Away up high, he saw a flock of geese flying south.

Then the Bear gazed up at the trees. The leaves had turned all yellow and brown and were falling from the branches.

(44)

The Bear knew when the geese flew south and the leaves fell from the trees, that winter would soon be here and snow would cover the forest. It was time to go into a cave and hibernate.

(45)

So he walked over to a huge tree that had a cave hollowed out beneath its roots. He was just about to go into it, when he stopped and said,

(46)

"But I CAN'T go into a cave and hibernate."

I'm NOT a Bear. I'm a silly man who needs a shave and wears a fur coat."

(47)

So winter came. The snow fell. It covered the forest and it covered him. He sat there, shivering with cold and he said, "But I sure wish I was a Bear."

The longer he sat there the colder he became. His toes were freezing, his ears were freezing and his teeth were chattering. Icicles covered his nose and chin. He had been told so often, that he was a silly man who needed a shave and wore a fur coat, that he felt it must be true.

So he just sat there, because he didn't know what a silly man who needed a shave and wore a fur coat would do, if he were freezing to death in the snow. The poor Bear was very lonely and very sad. He didn't know what to think.

Then suddenly he got up and walked through the deep snow toward the cave.

Inside, it was cosy and snug. The icy wind and cold, cold snow couldn't reach him here. He felt warm all over.

He sank down on a bed of pine boughs and soon he was happily asleep and dreaming sweet dreams, just like all bears do, when they hibernate. So even though the

and the GENERAL MANAGER
and the
THIRD VICE-PRESIDENT
and the SECOND VICE-PRESIDENT and the

FIRST
VICE-PRESIDENT
and the PRESIDENT
and the ZOO BEARS
and the CIRCUS BEARS

had said, he was a silly man who needed a shave and wore a fur coat, I don't think he really believed it, do you? No, indeed, he knew he wasn't a silly man, and he wasn't a silly Bear either.
